

Securitas Executive Protection

Individual security services

It is important to take preemptive measures against risks that might affect your personal security, health or safety. Executive Protection service, provided by professionals, is a modern and proactive way to raise the level of your personal security.

The preemptive measures aiming at securing a certain person or group are always planned and selected individually. For example the service might cover a personal security officer that is either placed on the side of the protected person in long term or imperceptibly observing and securing a certain event in the background. Depending on the specific needs of the customer, the service might be in effect from a few hours all the way up to days or weeks.

Securitas Executive Protection is an integral part of a large group of personal security services. It can be combined with for example technical or structural solutions and services related to logistics and transportation, travel security and home security – all designed to further advance the level of personal security.

Securitas Executive Protection in brief

- Securing a person or a group from physical harm
- Modern and proactive way to raise your level of security
- Individual implementation
- Guaranteed reliability and professionalism of the staff
- Other services related to personal security

Securitas Oy
P.O. Box 93
00521 Helsinki

Samuli Vällimaa
040 751 2793
samuli.valimaa@securitas.fi

020 4911
asiakaspalvelu@securitas.fi