

TSCM facilities inspection services

Securitas provides TSCM (Technical Surveillance Countermeasures) facilities inspection services to protect the information handled in various premises and at meetings against technical surveillance. Our effective methods are designed to find both active and passive surveillance devices.

Professional information protection

Our facilities inspection services form part of risk management and can be used to sweep any premises where confidential information is handled.

Our TSCM service is suited for a variety of scenarios where the integrity of the premises used needs to be ensured, e.g. for shareholder meetings, crucial meetings in the company's own premises, or at conference or hotel venues. A TSCM sweep may also be conducted when your enterprise moves into new premises, or after a renovation of existing premises.

The TSCM facilities inspection service finds both active and passive surveillance devices. Our professionals perform the sweep using state-of-the-art electronic TSCM devices.

The price of the service depends on the premises to be covered and the security level required. A written report will be returned on the inspection if required.
