

Securitas TSCM

Expertise in protecting information

The objective of Securitas TSCM services (Technical Surveillance Countermeasures) is to safeguard your work environment from technical surveillance. With the effective methods at our disposal, we have the capability to uncover both active and passive surveillance devices.

Our service applies to any room and space where confidential information is handled. We can offer you a way to further secure your new corporate office or for example an off-site meeting between your senior management.

The service is provided by specially trained surveillance experts, equipped with a top quality electronic detection system.

The pricing of the service comprises on basis of the architecture of the room or space. It is also dependent on the required level of security resulting from the sweep. On request, a written report on the sweep can be provided.
